52 LET 'EM PLAY

The future is now for prosthetics technology. And that means someday soon, an artificial appendage could yield a superhuman advantage. BY ERIC ADELSON

58 ANYTHING YOU CAN DO ...

Thanks to their determination and high-tech limbs, five jocks—including triathlete SARAH REINERTSEN—are pushing the envelope on how far, fast and high a disabled athlete can go.

40 NOW IT'S PERSONAL

After a business deal gone bad back home, in Colombia, Tigers shortstop Edgar Rentería and White Sox counterpart Orlando Cabrera won't be sharing hitting tips anytime soon. Inside the AL Central's hottest rivalry. BY JORGE ARANGURÉ

46 GLAD TO BE HERE ...

Pau Gasol won the lottery when the Lakers snagged him midseason, but that doesn't mean he's living on easy street. Plus: How all the other boldface tradees have fit in.

BY RIC BUCHER

50 KENNY MAYNE WROTE A BOOK

We celebrate An Incomplete & Inaccurate History of Sport, which includes Jessica Biel, baseball superstitions and a barely comprehensible pop quiz. Did we mention Jessica Biel? BY KENNY MAYNE

66 WHEN WORDS GET IN THE WAY

Despite 4.4 speed, linebacker Patrick Trahan didn't make the grade at Auburn. You could blame his learning disability, or everyone who looked the other way.

BY BRUCE FELDMAN

72 THE ULTIMATE STANDINGS

How much does your team love you? For the sixth year in a row, we asked that question about each of the Big Four pro franchises. Who's No. 1? Better yet, who's No. 122?

BY PETER KEATING

80 THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT ST. MARY'S

Where does the Great One send his son to school? The same hockey factory that sent Sidney Crosby and lots of other NHL stars on their skate to stardom. BY GARE JOYCE
