LIFE'S PICTURES

Doris Lee, whose second set of Hollywood paintings appears on pages 83 to 86 (her first ran in LIFE, Oct. 15), spent three months in the movie city, thinks the movies would be better off "if they didn't spend so darned much money." On the set of The Harvey Girls she was constantly startled and amused by incongruities: "bawdy barroom girls knitting little pink things and Indian squaws polishing their nails while reading copies of LIFE." Artist Lee is 40, lives in Woodstock, N.Y.
