LIFE'S PICTURES

LIFE Photographer Ralph Morse took the pictures that tell the story of how George Lott, a wounded soldier, was brought home from France to the U. S. (pp. 15-27). Morse himself is a part of this story. As Lott's constant escort, Morse wrote Lott's letters, lighted his cigarets and promoted his recovery with his own happy brand of psychotherapy. The assignment also brought Ralph home to see Ruth, who was his bride of three weeks when he went to Europe last April to cover the invasion.

The following list, page by page, shows the source from which each picture in this issue was gathered. Where a single page is indebted to several sources, credit is recorded picture by picture (left to right, top to bottom) and line by line (lines separated by dashes) unless otherwise specified.
