JUNE 1973|VOL. 7, NO. 1

THE MAGAZINE ABOUT PSYCHOLOGY, SOCIETY AND HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Patrice Horn	21	News Line Vampires in Canada; the message at the tip of your tongue; violence and the children of Northern Ireland; the hazards in family fights; and other items.
Ronald Melzack	28	Stimulus/Response: How Acupuncture Works Inserting needles into a person's ear to block abdominal pain may smack of witchcraft, but it has a sound scientific basis. The gate-control theory of pain explains why acupuncture is an efficient analgesia.
Peter Koenig	37	The Americanization of Acupuncture A report on American uses of the method, the status of the legal battle, and a roundup of acupuncture research.
T George Harris	41	When Science Lights Up Art , an Introduction.
Martin E. P. Seligman	43	Fall Into Helplessness Depression, the common cold of psychopathology, sets in when a person believes his actions have no effect on his life. The seriously depressed patient has literally learned to be helpless.
Michael Schulman	50	Backstage Behaviorism A psychologist describes Lee Strasberg's school of Method Acting and explains the scientific control of behavior that is as important to the Stanislavski Method as it is to key-pecking pigeons.
Howard Gardner	58	France and the Modern Mind Structuralism is an imaginative and influential force in today's world, but its tenets remain a mystery to most. A look at its roots in the French intellectual tradition and at its leading exponents, Jean Piaget and Claude Lévi-Strauss.
Kenneth Goodall	64	"This Little Girl Won't Interact With the Other Little Girls, and She Crawls Around a Lot," a conversation with Montrose M. Wolf. A psychologist who applies behavioral theories to people talks about the post-Skinnerians, candy, electric shock, and consumer control over behavior-modification programs.
Kenneth Goodall	68	Montrose Wolf: Spreading Reinforcers , a sketch.
Elery L. Phillips, Elaine A. Phillips, Dean L. Fixsen, and Montrose M. Wolf	74	Behavior Shaping for Delinquents Kansas psychologists set up a model program for delinquent youths that kept the boys in the community, was cheaper, and showed success on every indicator. But when they tried to duplicate the program, they discovered that a successful token economy requires warmth as well as material rewards.
Evelyn Shapiro	80	Psychosources An excerpt from a new catalog that helps you find your way through the maze of psychological schools, theories and topics.
Michael H. Chase	82	The Matriculating Brain Alpha waves lead neither to creativity nor nirvana, but operant conditioning of the brain holds hope for amputees, narcoleptics, and victims of epilepsy and Parkinson's disease.
Alexander L. George and Juliette L. George	94	Psycho-McCarthyism A pair of psychohistorians give The Kennedy Neurosis a close reading and find flaws in the book that could discredit the entire field of psychohistory.
Peter Madden and Lloyd Engdahl	99	The EMPTI Guide to Swollen Prose Ever wonder where writers of those papers abounding with "meaningful synergistic concepts" get their jargon? Here's a handy guide for aspiring psychologists.
