

Do you have a sensitive skin?

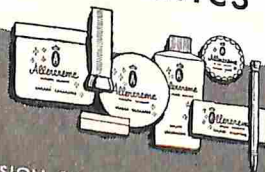

If you do, you will want to try Allercreme Hypo-allergenic Cosmetics — distinctive beauty aids made with a special understanding of sensitive skin to give it the gentle pampering it requires.

Pharmacy-safe Allercreme Cosmetics are made of the finest ingredients under laboratory control to provide beauty preparations you can trust. Gentle cleansers, soothing lubricants, exquisite make-ups, dependable deodorants and mild soap and shampoos are available in Allercreme Cosmetics.

For the lanolin-sensitive, there is a special group of lanolin-free lotions and creams. For the perfume-sensitive, most Allercreme Cosmetics are supplied Scented and Unscented. ALL Allercreme Cosmetics are unconditionally guaranteed to please you.

Allercreme Cosmetics are well-known to your dermatologist and allergist and may be purchased through leading prescription and drug stores. For the name of your nearest dealer and a free sample package, write . . .

Allercreme®
HYPO-ALLERGENIC
COSMETICS

DIVISION OF TEXAS PHARMACAL CO.
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, U.S.A.
In Canada - Omega Laboratories, Ltd.
Montreal and Toronto
In Venezuela - Sulus, C.A., Caracas

IN THIS ISSUE

For detailed table of contents, see page 4.

How Important Are Your Child's Friends?

Recognizing a child's needs for friendship and helping to meet them tactfully can be quite a job. Here are tips that will help. Page 6

New York Celebrates With a World's Fair

Larger than any fair ever held in the U.S., this billion-dollar spectacle will bring together impressively the cultures of 50 nations. Page 18

Don't Get Trapped by a Psychoquack

A new breed of quack is loose today. His prey often is the mentally ill who need help. But there are several ways to detect him. Page 28

Herbs: Their Ancient Influences on Mankind

Our ancestors used herbs for healing. They also credited concoctions of herbs with weird, fanciful, and unusual powers. Page 32

Experts Discuss 12 Driving Emergencies

Experts discuss ways to handle common and unusual driving emergencies: submerged auto escape, brake "fade," and others. Page 38

Paleface Medicine Men of the Frontier

The legendary Doc Carver and other captives of the Indians had no choice but to learn the "medicine of the forest" or die. Page 44

The Passing of the Side Show

Medical progress can take credit for the dwindling number of "nature's mistakes" who were once objects of public curiosity. Page 48

Voting: How You Can Get People to the Polls

Whether plain apathy or antiquated voting laws are at fault, you can get the voters to the polls on election day if you will try. Page 52

Victory Over the Sugar Sickness

The co-discoverer of insulin—a 22-year-old student at the time—tells the first-person story of this medical milestone. Page 56

COMING NEXT MONTH—

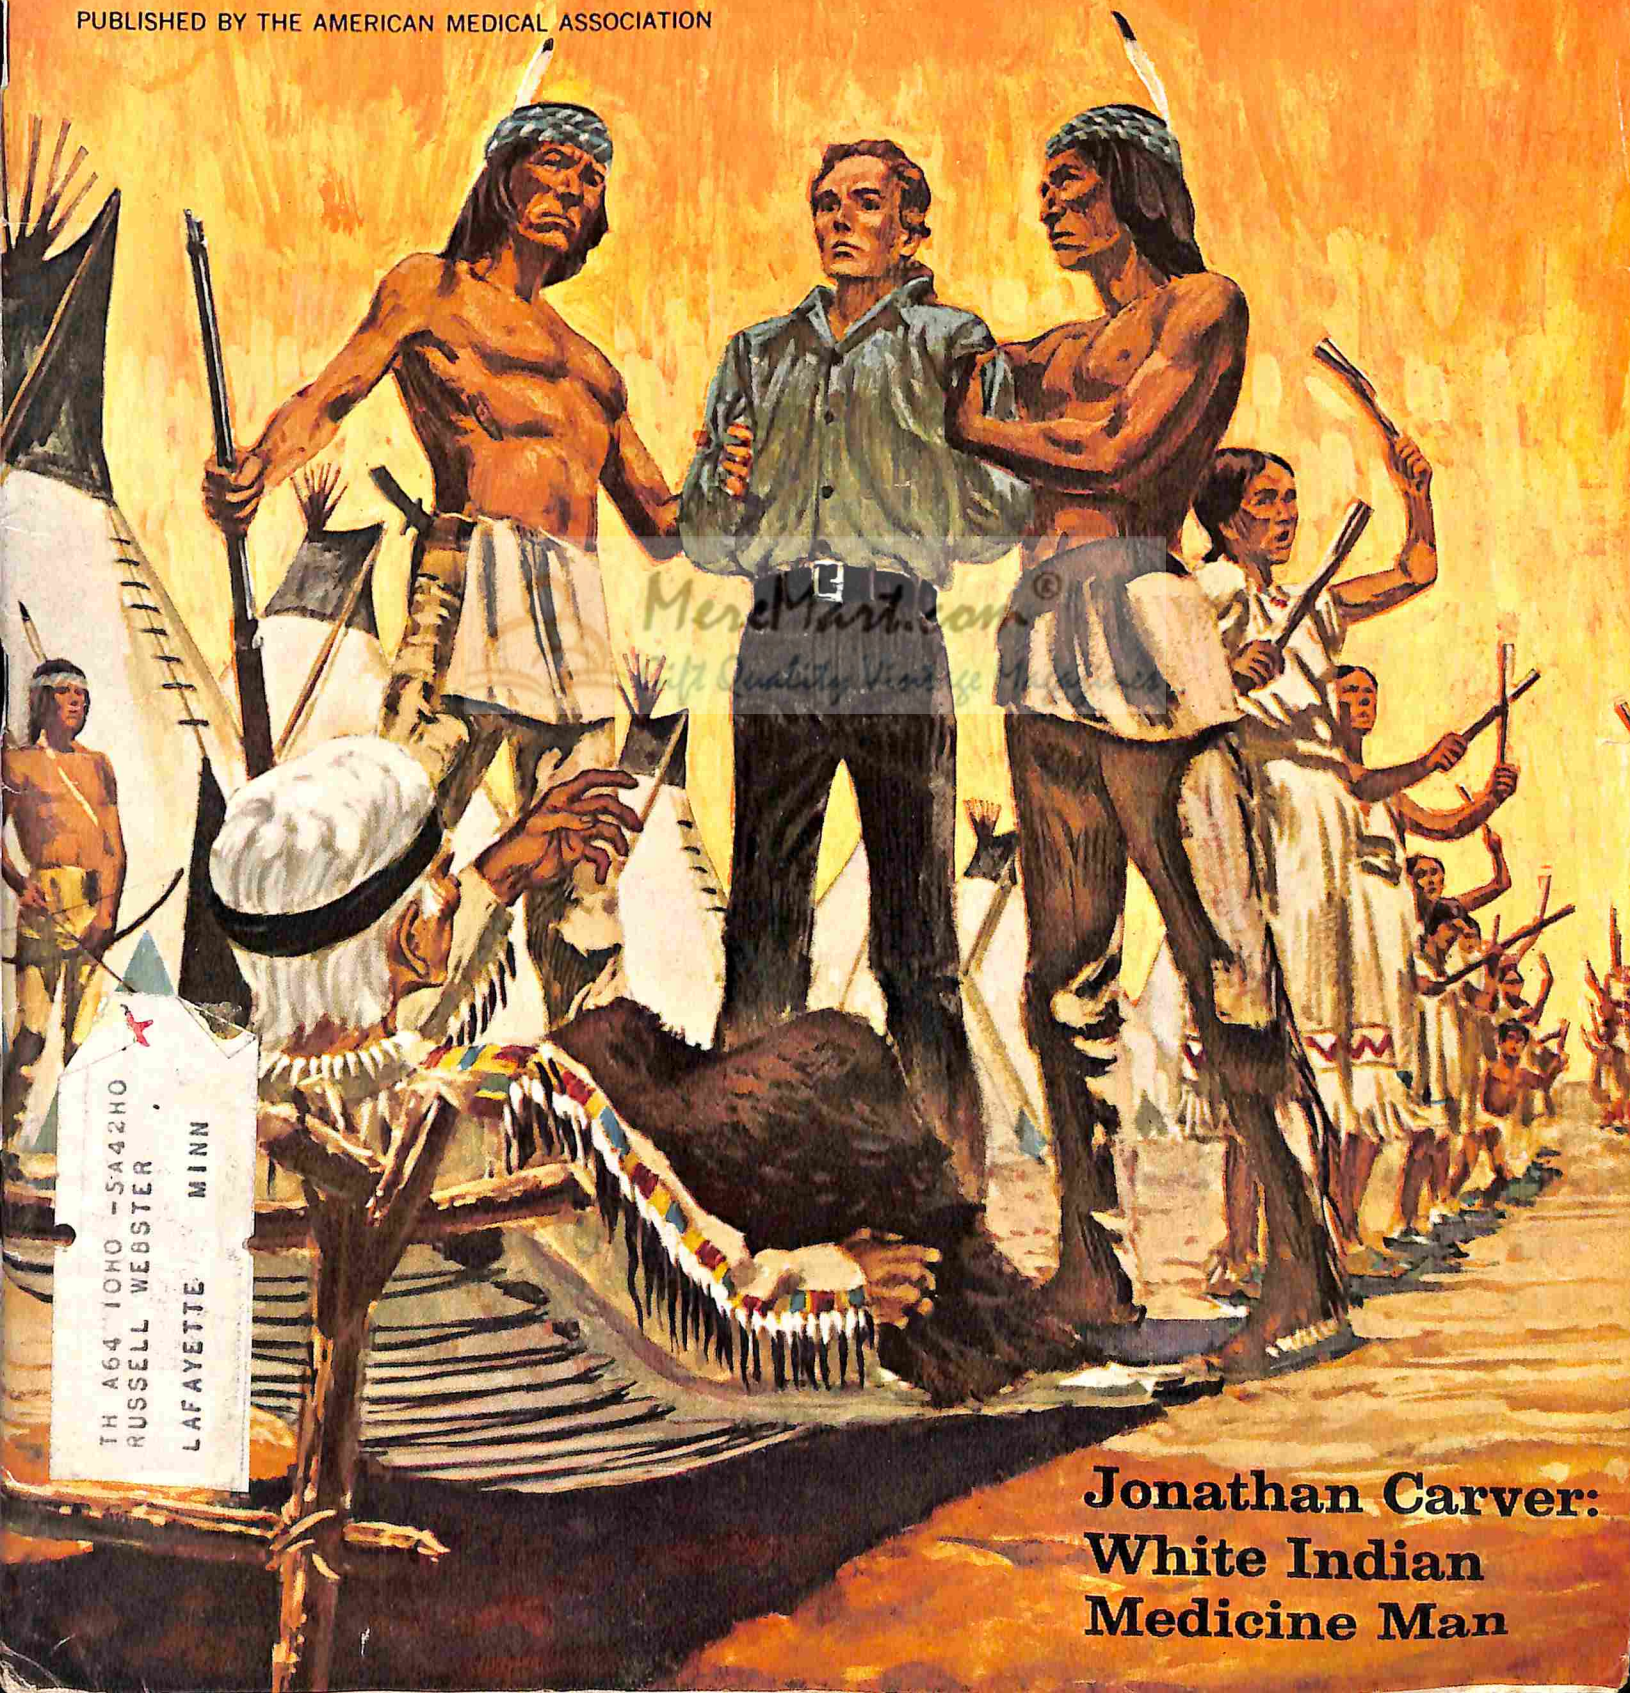

It Makes the World Go 'Round

Next month, in an unprecedented special issue, TODAY'S HEALTH explores the complexities of love and marriage in an array of enlightening articles. In one, a physician explains why the two sexes will never understand each other. In another, a wife and mother give her views on why women can't talk to their husbands—and vice versa. Other articles will discuss exotic marriage customs around the world, the real intimacy in marriage, and the importance of the premarital exam. And for those making wedding plans, there's even a feature on that happiest of all human trips, the honeymoon.

TH

Today's Health

PUBLISHED BY THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

TH A64 IOHO -5A42HO
RUSSELL WEBSTER
LAFAYETTE MINN

Jonathan Carver:
White Indian
Medicine Man