The COLT® TITANIUM! RATTLESNAKE

OFFICIAL COLT® COLLECTIBLE

Fires .45 ACP

Plating: Hard Gold Titanium and Pearl Gray Titanium
Edition Limit: Only 1000 Worldwide
Caliber: Fires .45ACP
Overall Length: 8-1/2"
Weight: 2-1/2 lbs.
Maker: Colt's Manufacturing Co., Inc.

PEARL GRAY TITANIUM, HARD GOLD TITANIUM, GENUINE RATTLESNAKE-SKIN GRIPS—A "FIRST"!

Titanium is ultra hard—which explains why the Stealth Fighter planes and the fastest race cars use it.

In fact, it's so hard, it's off the Rockwell scale!

On the heavy-duty Vickers scale, a hardened machine tool bit averages 800 Vickers; Titanium averages 2400 Vickers! It's so hard you can "polish" it with steel wool without hurting it; in fact, wear tests show this finish is up to 150 times harder than bare steel! And, because it's a molecular process that impregnates the steel substrate, it is many times more resistance to corrosion and rust than any other plating. With Titanium's natural lubricity and protective qualities, just think of the long wear and smooth function benefits—not to mention how easy it would be to keep a firearm plated with Titanium in "mint" condition. It would be eternal!

Have you ever seen a M1911A .45 like this? No one has! It's a first—and it's an Official Colt Collectible!

Now you can own one, and its guaranteed to turn heads at the firing range or in the showcase.

Colt and The American Historical Foundation bring this opportunity to only 1,000 shooters, collectors and museums in the world. This is a chance to make history by owning the world's first .45 in a Collectors Limited Edition, plated with ultra-hard, scratch-and-corrosion-resistant Titanium. Further assuring its immortality, the base metal of this special Colt is stainless steel.

"What's That Finish?"

That's the questions all your friends will ask the first time they see it. They'll never guess it's Titanium. Would you? What better or more exotic answer! Only a few laboratories in the world can do it, because it requires over a million dollars worth of equipment, specially-controlled, scientific laboratory conditions and confidential, proprietary procedures.

To give the Titanium that "wet look" shine, the steel is first brought to a glistening mirror finish, by experienced gun polishers. From that point on, it is carefully maintained under perfect laboratory conditions—where it is "untouched by human hands", lest it is contaminated and the finish ruined! The Titanium is transferred one molecule at a time, layer upon layer—15 layers to be precise, using highly-advanced Megenetron-Ion-Plating (MSIP) and Arc-Ion-Plating (AIP).

World's First Titanium-Plated M1911A1

For the first time on any collector edition M1911A1 .45, Titanium covers the slide, frame and controls. The accent components, for lasting beauty and value, shine with Hard Gold Titanium plating; it looks like 24-Karat Gold but has a hardness of over 2200 Vickers (off the Rockwell scale).

First (and only) Colt RATTLESNAKE™

This limited edition is also the first Colt Rattlesnake—and only the pistols in this edition are named that. This follows in the Colt "snake" tradition of the "Python", "Anaconda" and "King Cobra". The slide is deeply etched with a Rattlesnake—ready to attack, its fangs extended, forked tongue twitching and rattle shaking! Intertwined etched banners proclaim it in the elite Colt "Legacy Edition" and its Limited Edition status as "One of 1000".

First RATTLESNAKE™ Grips

And this project brings gun collecting yet another "First"—this is the first Limited Edition firearm ever custom fitted with genuine American Diamondback Rattlesnake-skin grips—or any other kind of snake skin. Standard Colt rubber grips are also included with your pistol, if you prefer these for rugged field use. And to further proclaim the importance of this pistol, the left grip bears a distinctive, custom Colt cloisonné, featuring the famous blue Onion Dome symbol of the old Colt factory.

Your Colt is accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity, verifying: (1) this is an Official Colt Collectible, (2) the authenticity of the Titanium finish, (3) the limited edition Registry Number (also engraved on the pistol) and (4) the strict edition limit.
