

Forbes

THE COVER

122 The Pfizer formula
With breakthrough science and clever marketing, it's our Company of the Year.
By Scott Woolley

MANAGEMENT, STRATEGIES, TRENDS

50 On Target
Dayton Hudson's discount chain aims at mass with class.
By Michelle Conlin

51 Going for the Wynn
A 73-year-old grandmother shows Steve how to play the Las Vegas real estate game.
By John Gorham

52 Millennium madness
Forget this New Year's Eve! Our alarmists eyeball Y2K.
By Adam L. Penenberg and Joanne Gordon

54 Love only one
Check out how bull and bear stock pickers fared in 1998.
By Mila Alper and Robert J. Sherwood

55 The Midas touch
In the world of mufflers, Wendel Province's got it.
By Brandon Copple

EXPLOITS OF AN EDITOR

116 James W. Michaels, feather ruffler
The man who has edited FORBES magazine for the past 37 years is switching to a new job as Group Vice President/Editorial. A colleague recounts how Jim Michaels changed the face of business journalism.
By William Baldwin

65 As I See It
No more barriers
Daimler's Jürgen Schrempp talks about the notion of world government.
By Justin Doebele

70 Backup baby-sitters
Emergency day care wins favor in Corporate America.
By Susan Adams

72 Family-friendly fracas
Why should workers with kids get the perks?
By Dan Seligman

78 Muddy waters
Brett Goldberg brings Dead Sea romance to market.
By Phyllis Berman and Adrienne Sanders

83 Quittin' time
Should Manpower's top guy still be punching the clock?
By Phyllis Berman and Adrienne Sanders

96 Mr. Contrarian
In Ralph Gomory's world, no cliché goes unchallenged.
By Dyan Machan

54 And the winner...
How our bulls and bears did in the market of 1998.

122 Life after Viagra
"It's a high-risk, high-reward industry. It's all based on research."

78 Mudslingers
"At first our product was a way for tourists to prolong their love affair with Israel."

266 "Tubby" does the Net
How a Wall Street vet plays the Internet stocks.

ENTREPRENEURS

102 Up & Comers
Crafty designer
At Barry Kieselstein-Cord, control leads to success.
By Tom Post

103 Mistress of her Domain
For Judy George, furniture buying is a big mind game.
By Mary Summers

104 How did they do?
A look back at some of our 1998 Up & Comers.
By Leigh Gallagher

INTERNATIONAL

66 Wired island
Singapore uses high-tech as a way of life and social change.
By Andrew Tanzer

88 Symptom therapy
South Korea's IMF infusion masks a still-sickly economy.
By Neil Weinberg

TECHNOLOGY

110 Cold Java
Sun's programming language is beset by feuding factions.
By Daniel Lyons

112 Hot Rod, Version 1.0
Clarion's AutoPC turns your car into a high-tech wonder.
By Stephen Manes

DEPARTMENTS

- 16 Side Lines
- 18 Follow-Through
- 18 Flashbacks
- 22 On My Mind
- 28 Readers Say
- 31 Fact and Comment
- 36 Other Comments
- 41 Commentary
- 43 Digital Rules
- 47 Transparent Eyeball
- 48 Economic Forecast
- 48 Forbes Index
- 274 Thoughts

10 Editorial Index

COLUMNISTS

- 80 The global economy
James D. Zirin
- 86 Observations
Thomas Sowell
- 94 Herod II
Peter Huber

COVER PHOTOGRAPH BY DARRYL ESTRINE

America's Best Big Companies

January 11, 1999

$4.95 / Canada $5.95

www.forbes.com

Forbes

COMPANY OF THE YEAR

Pfizer

The people who brought us
Viagra have more blockbusters
on the way

Chief Executive Officer
William C. Stebbins

#BXBCRGJ**5-DIGIT. 93720
#FRB0045899358/6#54 05APR99
FLORENCE I WILLIS
7625 N 1ST ST L177
FRESNO CA 93720-0959

*Meridian.com
Gift Quality Vintage Magazine*