LIFE'S PICTURES

Impressed with the sights he saw on his first trip to the Australian whaling grounds aboard the Frango two years ago, Third Engineer Morris D. Miller last year bought a Leica and on his second whaling expedition photographed the ship from crows-nest to hold to obtain a complete record of a modern whaling voyage. Some of his pictures, the first he has ever sold, appear on pages 11-13 of this issue. Mr. Miller, now 24, studied engineering at Fort Schuyler, worked as a motorman on a tanker, and refrigeration engineer on a fruit boat before he became a member of Frango's crew.

The following list, page by page, shows the source from which each picture in this issue was gathered. Where a single page is indebted to several sources credit is recorded to several picture (left to right, top to bottom) and line by line (indicated by dashes).
