THE MAGAZINE ABOUT PSYCHOLOGY, SOCIETY AND HUMAN BEHAVIOR

I have been an amputee (I lost my arm ☐ The question of male and female when I was a sophomore at college) I have learned to adjust rather easily and equality is one clearly defined in the Bible. Genesis 3:16, "... and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rather simple to live with. People, rule over thee." Ephesians 5:23, "For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church...." been beautiful. If you look, there are many more places had barely a moment without some when God sanctions and defines the true role of women. There should be no question as to the "fairness" of roles of women. God provides the answers.

28 Stimulus/Response What This Country Needs Is a Safe Five-Cent Intoxicant

by Martin M. Katz

Man must have a way to reawaken his senses and alter his consciousness, argues the scientist largely responsible for pharmacological research at the National Institute for Mental Health. We know how to develop the psychedelics, if society will only specify the exact state the drug should produce.

35 A Conversation with Herbert Marcuse by Sam Keen and John Raser The philosopher of radical youth discusses American society frankly and with good humor. In the process he answers his critics and puts down the encounter movement and the politics of terror.

SEXUALITY-TWO ANTHROPOLOGICAL STUDIES

41 The Lack of the Irish by John C. Messenger Encouraged by narrow-minded priests, sexual puritanism runs rampant in a remote Irish community. An anthropologist describes the taboos, the misconceptions and the just plain lack of sex on this small island.

Too Much in Mangaia by Donald S. Marshall Sex is the principal concern of the people on tiny Mangaia, reports an Army anthropologist. This permissive island society, which encourages premarital sex and sophisticated love-making techniques, has neither frigid women nor homosexuals.

45 Conflict and Style in the College Classroom— An Intimate Study

by Barbara E. Ringwald, Richard D. Mann, Robert Rosenwein and Wilbert J. McKeachie

Intellectual exchange is only one of the things going on in a college classroom, say researchers in interpersonal dynamics. Emotional pressures and interpersonal conflicts caused by radically different student life-styles build educational barriers that must be broken down by the teacher-who has his own classroom problems.

50 Man Overadapting to the Environment by René Dubos An environmentalist who won a Pulitzer Prize discusses the threat to man of uncontrolled technology and finds grave danger in the fact that we adapt too well to pollution, to crowding, to noise-and to affluence.

54 The Mystery Pigment in Color Vision by Mathew Alpern Routine experiments led an expert in color vision onto the trail of a mystery pigment in the eye. It someone cannot find the pigment, we may have to revise all our theories about color vision.

82 Woman & Man-A Psychology Today Questionnaire by Carol Tavris The roles of woman and man in this society appear to be shifting from the stereotypes, but the distance from the headlines to the American home is uncertain. For her doctoral dissertation, a Psychology Today editor is attempting to pin down the reality—and your response to this questionnaire will help.
