THE MAGAZINE ABOUT PSYCHOLOGY, SOCIETY AND HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Ronald L. Goldfarb	20	Stimulus/Response: American Prisons: Self-Defeating Concrete No more than 20 percent of prisoners are a danger to society; the rest are enrolled in a costly school for crime. A lawyer urges us to tear down most prison walls.
Robert Dellinger	89	The Grape Seed and Fried Ice Cream Game A convict discusses the myth of rehabilitation.
Patrice Horn	26	News Line Scientist as saint and sinner; the psychology of tattoos; cola—the new dependency; policewomen walk the beat; and other items.
T George Harris	29	Apes and Other Editors , an introduction.
Joyce Dudley Fleming	31	Field Report: The State of the Apes All across the country, chimpanzees are talking to psychologists. No matter what the method, the report is the same: chimps can learn nonverbal languages.
Joyce Dudley Fleming	49	The Lucy and Roger Talk Show Lucy is a chimpanzee and Roger is teaching her to talk with her hands. But both teacher and observer keep forgetting that the conversation is between two different species.
Graham Staines, Toby Epstein Jayaratne and Carol Tavris	55	The Queen Bee Syndrome Ever wonder why some successful women are eager to point out the sins of women's liberation? It all has to do with the self-interest of the woman who has made it in a man's world.
Charles W. Slack and Warner V. Slack	62	"Good! We Are Listening to You Talk About Your Sadness" Psychotherapy is the talking cure, but a computer can listen as patiently as any therapist. A study shows that while most people want to tell their troubles to another human being, some prefer talking to that noncomprehending machine.
Bette-Jane Raphael	66	The Myth of the Male Orgasm For years male scientists have told females about their orgasms—or lack of them. Now a group of female scientists have explored the male orgasm and offer their findings to the world.
Mary Ann Spencer Pulaski	68	The Rich Rewards of Make Believe A child's predisposition to fantasize is fixed by the age of five. But there are ways to cultivate the rich fantasy life that increases creativity, flexibility, and even the ability to sit still.
Paul Chance	76	"After You Hit a Child, You Can't Just Get Up and Leave Him; You Are Hooked to That Kid," a conversation with Ivar Lovaas about self-mutilating children and how their parents make it worse.
Paul Chance	78	Poet With a Cattle Prod , a sketch of Ivar Lovaas.
