ADMINISTRATION'S DEFENSE

of unquestioned probity but one who believes a President should get the man he nominates. Aiken came out for Haynsworth, partly offsetting the impact of Williams' vote on wavering Senators. Then, on the eve of the roll call with the announced votes at 44 apiece, the respected Kentucky Republican, John Sherman Cooper, marched into the Senate to announce his decision: against—on ethical grounds. Cooper's prestigious opinion helped to hold other Republicans for the opposition, and provided the coup de grâce to Haynsworth.

Leaders Aroused. The wounds left on the G.O.P. by the Haynsworth donnybrook are not likely to heal swiftly. Conservatives in the Senate talk about retaliating against Minority Leader Hugh Scott. Scott's future effectiveness with Nixon has been thrown into doubt. In many states, grass-roots leaders have been roused up against their Senators; this seriously dims any chance the her brightness," says Goodman. "She is terribly concerned with her image—with the idea that she is only a screen personality and is not a bona fide person in people's mate politician miscalculated the strength of the moderate and liberal G.O.P. Senators as he singlemindedly pursued his "Southern strategy." Ever so, in the South Nixon's image has probably gained new luster: despite the loss Nixon will get credit for trying.

The Haynsworth defeat will not end Nixon's efforts to remake the Supreme Court. "slender, sexy swingers grace many museums and private collections around the world, this is his first for TIME and first of a real, live girl. The others have all been imaginary. The sculpture took three weeks to complete, and Gallo personally brought it from Champaign, Ill., to New York—it sat beside him in a first-class Ozark Air Lines seat. At first the package was too bulky to get the seat belt around, so Gallo was obliged to unwrap it. That caused quite a stir on the plane. "The hostesses came on the intercom," says Gallo, "and announced that they were pleased to have Myra Breckinridge on the flight with them today."
