Dear Reader:

There is always a temptation to take this space to beat the drum and shout, "Here comes the lion!" This issue is a lion. But having come so perilously close to it as you now are, we figure that the lion's got you.

And that is just fine. Because it leaves us free to take note of the fact that our longtime Associate Editor, Thomas J. Anderson, has been nominated by the American Party for Vice President of the United States. And it's quite a race this year. After all, one of Tom's opponents is R. Sargent Shriver - first boss of that quintessential "Liberal" project known as the Peace Corps. You will remember that it was the Peace Corps which sent swarms of beimpled adolescents to the Sudan to teach the Whirling Dervish how to Twist like Chubby Checker. Were the Hottentots unclad? Shriver would teach them how to dress like Sonny and Cher. Were the Burmese befuddled? Shriver would send an English major from Barnard to read to them from the "poems" of Allen Ginsberg. And Sargent Shriver was the logical choice! It was rumored that years ago George McGovern had come out for Euthanasia. With the Head Peacorpserman on the ticket it could be made to appear that McGovern was really talking about a student exchange program with Peking.

So you must understand that we are glad to see a man of the calibre of American Opinion's Associate Editor, Tom Anderson, being given an important educational platform in this election year. Such men are usually received by a national press with the sort of attention we might give a professional phrenologist or a lady Ph.D. in a linoleum hat passing out abortion tracts in front of the Catholic Church on Sunday. But our friend Tom Anderson (about whom you can read more on Page 19) means to change all of that. You must forgive us if, still putting our commitment to America above politics, we wish him well.

Sincerely,

Scott Stanley Jr.

The Communist Plot To Kill George Wallace

Alan Stang is a former business editor for Prentice-Hall, Inc., and a television writer, producer, and consultant. Mr. Stang is an AMERICAN OPINION Contributing Editor and is author of the Western Islands bestsellers, It's Very Simple and The Actor. Author Stang, who earned his B.A. at City College of New York and his Masters at Columbia, is also a witty and dynamic speaker who lectures widely.

ASSASSINATION is becoming as American as apple pie, to paraphrase H. Rap Brown. Every four years we have a Presidential election, and at almost the same intervals the assassins burst from the crowds and do their work. In 1963, President John F. Kennedy was murdered. In 1968, the victims were his brother Bobby and Martin Luther King. In 1972, an assassin has come within a spinal cord of killing Governor George C. Wallace, and appears to have ended his political career, at least for a time. Indeed, assassination is becoming so routine that as the quadrennial national insanity approaches, one wonders who will be murdered.

And, as we have seen, the events that follow every assassination have been as formalized as Japanese theatre. Before the echo of the shots has completely died away, before anything whatever is known about the assassin, the "Liberal" press is screeching that he was a "lone fanatic." Somebody "in the know" says he was involved in "no conspiracy." A social worker reveals that he comes from a "broken home." And a psychiatrist explains that he may very well be schizoid, and that he did what he did because he is a failure with girls.

The attempt on the life of Governor Wallace followed the usual script. As usual, "there was no conspiracy." There never is. Arthur Herman Bremer was a "lone fanatic." His mother gave him an inferiority complex. He did what he did to become a Hollywood star. And as usual there is a psychiatrist, in this case Dr. David Abrahamsen, who has never met Arthur Bremer, but compares him as follows with the earlier assassins on the front page of the New York Times soon after the attempt: "There is a fantastic similarity. This man Bremer seems to have had much the same background. Looking broadly at the political assassin in our history, we see that he has always been a personal failure, an isolated human being, incapable of exhibiting genuine human relationships and possessing extraordinary ambitions that were out of proportion to his intellectual and emotional assets."

In other words: He's all mixed up.

Your correspondent has since gone into the underground for the facts, with a special AMERICAN OPINION investigating team, and the facts point inescapably to the following conclusions: The attempt to kill Governor George Wallace was a conspiracy. It was a Communist conspiracy. It could well involve agents of Communist China. And the Central Intelligence Agency might have had something to do with it. Here are the facts. Judge for yourself.
