October Promises

OCTOBER is an important month for the gardener. A summer in the garden, with its fulfillments and possible disappointments, has made him experienced. He is now ready to read during the fall and winter so that his garden may next year more nearly approach his dream.

In the October issue Fleeta Brownell Woodroffe will discuss "the bedfellows of the bulbs," a practical article on what to plant with the bulbs in order that we may produce a succession of pictures.

The thoughtful reader will anticipate with pleasure the article about design in the rock garden, by Prof. Franz A. Aust and Hazel Hankinson, who give a clever diagram explaining the rules which govern good design.

Ben Arthur Davis, secretary of the federated Garden Clubs of Mississippi, has written an article for our vast throng of Southern readers on autumn work in the garden.

You can look forward with pleasure to another October article if you are perplexed by plant names. It is entertaining and informative, dealing with the romance of common plant names, the reason for the use of scientific names, and will give you an understanding of the fascination of knowing the correct as well as the nicknames of our plants.

These are but four timely feature articles in the October issue of Better Homes and Gardens.—EDITOR.

There's a brand-new thrill in

today. Armour's new "double-f" process gives new zest to an old favorite...

Fixed* Flavor, changeless as the fixed stars

HUNDREDS of our friends said it couldn't be done. "You can't improve on perfection," they said. But we decided to try. We did... and we have. Step by step, the "double-f" process was developed. We found the narrow path to Fixed* Flavor. It has resulted in the tenderest, tastiest bacon that ever passed your lips... Armour's Star!

The selection of young, grain-fed livestock is important, of course. But we found our greatest opportunity in the field of curing and smoking. Any good cook who has "fussed" with ingredients, temperature, and seasoning will appreciate the search for perfection that brought about the "double-f" process... and the thrill of achievement that rewarded the search.

We changed things here and there, in the curing-mix and the cure itself, and finally in the smoking-process which drives that North Woods tang into every ounce of the meat. We employed a thermometric control that guards against human error of time or temperature. In the Armour kitchens, Star Bacon is sliced, fried, and eaten every morning, to be sure that the flavor is up to the new Star standard.

"Double-f" means Fixed* Flavor, the scientific control that is changeless as the fixed stars. You will know how much it means to you and your family the minute you taste the new Star Bacon. When it sizzles in the pan, appetites become unmanageable. When you place it on your tongue, it melts away like frost under the November sun. Delicious! Thrilling!

Try the new Star Bacon tomorrow. Buy plenty of it—in the new pound or half-pound cartons, uniformly sliced, or by the piece. There are so many ways to serve it that appetites never weary of it. These delicious recipes are all in a book which we will send you free, "36 Ways to Serve Bacon." Just mail the coupon. And be sure to tell your dealer you want Star Bacon... S-T-A-R! This point is important—one worth insisting upon.

Tune-in the Armour Hour every Friday night at 8.30 eastern standard time, over any of 36 stations associated with the N.B.C. Armour and Company, Chicago.
