YOUR MARCH-APRIL COVER

There are few components that have captured the imaginations of design engineers like plastic wads. A multitude of manufacturers have come up with seemingly uncounted styles; only a few are illustrated on this month's cover. Rick Jamison photographed the wads with backlighting to allow the viewer to more clearly see the wad structure. For wad identification, turn to page 65.

Pacific's NEW 366 AUTO

If you shoot competitively, here's the loader you've been waiting for. In the new 366 Auto, Pacific has automated all the things that used to slow down your reloading. With one stroke of the lever you get:

- Full-length resizing
- Automatic Primer Feed
- Automatic shot and powder drop
- Wad guide swings out for easy insertion
- Platen rotates automatically
- 3-stage crimp with precise Taper-Loc finish
- Automatic shell ejection
- Shot/powder shutoff

No other loader at any price has all these features!

Compare. Pacific's new 366 Auto is simply the best progressive loader value on the market. Period.
