

Departments

Incubator

- 24 HIGH CONCEPT A cure for grinding teeth, a modern-day Rosetta Stone, and an advance in doctor-patient communication
- 30 DOSSIER Peter Valcarce is a direct marketer with a mission: to get Republicans elected
- 32 SEARCH Spot that opportunity: the definitive guide to finding promising new markets, and more
- 36 MAIN STREET The owner of Aladdin's Auto Service Center services not only auto bodies but also human spirits
- 38 MARKETS The delicate art of selling to nonprofits
- 40 SEEN The rise of the multimillion-dollar megachurch
- 42 60-SECOND BUSINESS PLAN Fast food for fitness fans
- 46 BUSINESS FOR SALE Find a new life in old books

The Inc Life

- 50 PROFILE: THE MOST BEAUTIFUL HOUSE IN THE WORLD Tom Olivo built the house that changed his life—from 1,200 miles away
- 56 FIT You get your teeth examined every six months. What about your head?

- 60 NIGHT SHIFT Jose and Kathy Serrato own and run their business together. Out of their home. While raising four kids. Now, how does that work again?
- 62 ROAD TRIP How to dress, where to go, what to say. The Hawaii you'd otherwise miss out on

PLUS: An owner's guide to stress-busting tools, a look at one recovering CEO, and Arthur Bagby's wicket obsession

Columns

- 9 FYI Amid all the devastation, signs of hope emerge By George Gendron
- 68 STREET SMARTS It's never a good idea to pay ransom to key employees By Norm Brodsky
- 72 LETTER FROM SILICON VALLEY Sitting behind the wheel of a taxicab. Wearing leather and wielding a whip. You never know where an ex-dot-commer will turn up next By Andrew Raskin

6 INC MAGAZINE

The Whole New Business Catalog

114 INCQUERY Trying to decide what business to go into, and other perplexing problems

116 E-STRATEGIES It takes a shrewd entrepreneur to find big-league software at minor-league prices

120 MAIN EVENT Salespeople are from Mars, customers are from Venus, and more scary revelations

122 MANAGING CHANGE Your business is failing. What better to share your financials with your employees? No, seriously

124 CHIEF EXEC A board of directors just isn't what it used to be

In Every Issue

18 MAIL

184 ARCHIVE

Special Inc Tech Report: The 2001 Web Awards

128 BEST PRACTICES With apologies to Mark Twain, tales of the Internet's do have been greatly exaggerated. Present Inc's guide to what makes a great Web

132 THE WINNERS

134 GENERAL EXCELLENCE How whitewater-rafting company has surprisingly smooth ride on the Internet

140 MARKETING With imagination and clear sense of their customers, Earth The Merriman Capital Management keep their Web visitors coming back for more

143 DESIGN Web design isn't about flashy graphics and features. The best sites appreciate the value of simplicity

146 SOLE PROPRIETORS Most Web sites run by one-person shops are pretty bad. But it doesn't have to be that way

150 ROI The elusive art of calculating a site's return on investment

Inc.com

GOING FOR BROKERS Thinking of enlisting help in selling your business? Don't be scared off by "For Sale: The American Dream" on page 92. It just pays to know what you're getting into. Inc.com talked to Tom West, founder of the Business Brokerage Press, author and editor of the 2001 Business Reference Guide, to find out what questions you should ask a prospective broker, and what key points your contract should cover. For his advice, go to www.inc.com/keyword/101broker

The Magazine for Growing Companies

Solo, But Not Alone

How Indigo
Partners Is Proving You
Can Have
It All

IncQuery:
What Business Should I Start?

Owner
Beware:
The Truth About Selling Your Company

Special:
The 2001
Best of the Web
Awards

The Inc Life:
The Most Beautiful House in the World

November 30, 2001
$4.95 US $5.95 Canada

CR LOT 0026A#C-040
DS IM11-D MAY03
P000191
FLORENCE I WILLIS
7625 N 1ST ST 177
FRESNO CA 93720-0959

The New Face of Entrepreneurship:
soloist and Indigo partner Liz Bradley