

Departments

Incubator

- 20 HIGH CONCEPT The multipurpose multiplex, sight for sore eyes, watching you watching, and racket busters
- 24 DOSSIER After living with risk daily, what does a longtime Secret Service agent do for an encore? Become an entrepreneur
- 28 SEARCH "The greatest business book ever," and more
- 32 MAIN STREET The fire department wants 103 pounds of ham. The phone rings with an order for 1,000 pounds of beef. Even when things are "slow," the line to the counter runs 20 deep. Just another day in the life of Holsinger's Meat Market
- 36 MARKETS Is it finally time to jump on the alternative-energy bandwagon? Well, yes and no
- 38 SEEN The IPO world is alive and well for one optimistic company builder
- 40 60-SECOND BUSINESS PLAN Talk about a convenient society. Try 1-800-I-NEED-A-THERAPIST-NOW
- 42 BUSINESS FOR SALE A cruise-focused travel agency

The Inc Life

- 44 PROFILE: FORE PLAY The Senior PGA Tour. If you're a golf buff, you've probably toyed with the idea. Maybe, you think, just maybe if you applied the same determination that helped you build your business, you could be competing out there. We found one chief executive who actually did it. And guess what? Surviving the Senior PGA Tour makes building a business look easy
- 50 RETURNS Want to hire a money guru? Maybe you'd better answer some questions first
- 52 NIGHT SHIFT A single CEO with no children sets boundaries
- 54 ROAD TRIP How the Albuquerque locals get their kicks
- 56 A SPACE OF ONE'S OWN One company founder created a home office that's so great, everyone wants to visit her

6 INC MAGAZINE

Columns

8 FYI What would drive an entrepreneur to reshuffle his top management team at the peak of his company's success?

By George Gendron

58 STREET SMARTS Why barriers to entry are good

By Norm Brodsky

62 LETTER FROM SILICON VALLEY A food zealot chases his fortune on the Web, even though content sites are no longer the dish du jour

By Andrew Raskin

The Whole New Business Catalog

92 INCQUERY Can an entrepreneur find happiness working for someone else? Plus, answers to questions about discontinuing a product, valuing a company, and more

94 CAPITAL Money is still out there looking for strategic buys

98 CHIEF EXECUTIVE What to do when your dream comes true—and you hate it

100 THE MAIN EVENT The lowdown on competitive intelligence

102 THE INC M.B.A. How to bulletproof your business plan in a slumping economy

In Every Issue

17 MAIL

108 ARCHIVE

Inc.com

FINDING THE ANGELS Could your company use an infusion of capital? Find tips and targeted leads in Inc.com's database of angel-investor networks

CORPORATE GUMSHOE Inspired by this conference that's highlighted in this month's Main Event (on page 100)

Inc.com has put together a short course in sleuthing that any CEO with even the most meager resources can use to scoop the competition. Trench coat and magnifying glass are optional. Find all the details at www.inc.com/keyword/100web

PLUS: Thumbs Up or Thumbs Down? Does this month's 60-Second Business Plan (on page 40) have the right stuff to succeed?

Go on-line to cast your vote—and see what the experts say—at www.inc.com/keyword/100plan

The Magazine for Growing Companies

INC

Michael Bloomberg Replaces Himself

The Inc Life: CEO Tees Off on the Senior Tour

Search: The Best Business Book Ever

The 7 Secrets of Angel Investors

The Inc MBA: Bulletproof Business Plans

“DON'T BLAME ME!”

For Philip Kaplan, founder of F***ed Company, bursting the dot-com bubble has been one big lucrative expletive

October 16, 2001
$4.95 US $5.95 Canada

