The digital age comes home

Digital processing isn't exclusive to computers anymore. This special report takes you through the latest advances in digital consumer electronics, from DAT machines to "smart" TVs to CD-quality car radios.

Inside Biosphere II

For the next two years, eight people will be separated from the rest of the world, living in a self-contained scientific project known as Biosphere II.

Global designs for compacts

No longer all-American, the Ford Escort is now part Japanese. It goes up against the Mazda Protegé, Geo Prizm, and Eagle Summit.

What's next in home energy

A new generation of more-efficient home energy systems are moving out of the research labs and into prototype.
