Dear Reader:
It now takes almost six feet of shelf space to hold just a single copy of each issue of American Opinion published since our founding in 1958. Reading in the 190 magazines on that shelf, one is reminded again and again of how successful our nation's enemies have been in expanding their control of America along just the course, and at almost precisely the rate, that American Opinion has predicted. We take no pride in this. Rather, we sorrow. For so much of what has happened in the last seventeen years could have been prevented had our reports of the plans and activities of these conspirators been widely enough read and believed.

What has happened in the last two years, alone, is simply incredible. Our economy has been forced to its knees, with far worse prospects ahead. The men serving as President and Vice President of the United States have been removed from office and replaced by appointed leaders who call openly for merging the United States with the Soviets and Red Chinese in a New World Order. The Subversive Activities Control Board, the Internal Security Division of the Justice Department, the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations, and the House Committee on Un-American Activities have simply been abolished. And, even as we go to press, what remains of anti-Communist leadership in the F.B.I. and C.I.A. is being openly purged.

All of these and other matters are discussed in the magazine you are about to read. The situation is almost unspeakably grave. The choice is now to commit totally the resources and labor and determination needed to increase the reach and impact of our effort to save our country, or to watch the destruction of all that we love. In 1958, in the very first issue of American Opinion, Robert Welch observed that "historians of the future, looking back on this period of America's gradual surrender to Communism, will marvel most at the lack of resistance of those who had the most to lose." But whatever our wealth and holdings, whatever our station in life, in the end what each of us has to lose is our country and our liberty and the future of our children and grandchildren. No American can lose more than that. And if those things are not worth the kind of total commitment it will now take to preserve them, nothing is.

Sincerely,

Scott Stanley Jr.

LITTLE BROTHER

David Rockefeller And World Government

Gary Allen, a graduate of Stanford University, is the author of several best-selling books, including Communist Revolution In The Streets; Nixon's Palace Guard; Richard Nixon: The Man Behind The Mask; and None Dare Call It Conspiracy. He is now finishing a new book for Concord Press to be entitled The Rockefeller File. Mr. Allen, a former instructor of history and English, is active in numerous humanitarian, anti-Communist, and business enterprises. A film writer, author, and journalist, he is a Contributing Editor to AMERICAN OPINION.

■ MOST Americans regard Nelson Rockefeller as the most important member of the Rockefeller family. He is, after all, the Vice President of the United States and has since 1960 been a perennial candidate for the Presidency. Nelson Rockefeller is a compulsive extrovert, a chronic campaigner, who loves to be in the public eye. As a result he is far better known than are his brothers, but notoriety is an unreliable measure of power.

Students of the Eastern Establishment are well aware that while Nelson gets the ink, it is little brother David who wields the power. "As the de facto head of the American Establishment," reports Time, "it has been said that for him the presidency would be a demotion." The New York Times concurs. "He has come to be regarded as a spokesman for enlightened American capitalism," echoes the Times. Of course, to the New York Times, "enlightened American capitalism" means government planning of virtually every facet of the American economy, major transfers of America's vital technology to the Communists, the internationalizing of American business through multinational holding companies, and the creation of a World Government (the favorite euphemism is New World Order) through which the Establishment Insiders expect to rule unchallenged.

David Rockefeller runs the foreign and financial ends of the family empire, while Nelson fronts for its domestic political interests. You don't have to be a certified genius to figure out which has primary authority. David combines the Rockefeller family's traditional control over the various Standard Oil companies with personal control of the Chase Manhattan Bank and the Council on Foreign Relations. He is chairman of the board of both the latter enterprises.

From his perch high atop Manhattan's skyline, David Rockefeller has exercised his influence over presidents, kings, and commissars, almost always to the advantage of the empire which he rules: The Rockefeller Empire. For no king in history could boast the luxury, wealth, or power which David Rockefeller manages from his headquarters in New York City.

What of this mild-mannered man who speaks for "enlightened American capitalism," and for whom the "presidency would be a demotion"?

David Rockefeller was born June 12, 1915, the youngest of five sons of John D. Rockefeller Jr. From his earliest days he was surrounded by the elegant life of four Rockefeller residences: a brownstone on West Fifty-Fourth Street in New York City; a splendid summer home in Seal Harbor, Maine; a magnificent ranch in the Grand Tetons of Wyoming; and,
