Chicken bones are a piece of cake for a KitchenAid disposer.

Steak bones aren't a bone of contention either.

A KitchenAid disposer is tough. Its grinding elements are heat treated, cast stainless steel.

If a jam ever occurs, you won't need a wrench. You can clear it electrically. It goes about its work so quietly you'll hardly know it's around. But it will be around because it's built to last.

Want a tough disposer? See your KitchenAid dealer. (He's in the Yellow Pages.)
