REVENGE OF THE JOCKS II

36 HAVE YOU HUGGED YOUR BOSS TODAY?

Step off, Deepak Chopra, there's a new life coach in town. Guest editor CHAD JOHNSON, who headlines our second annual athletes-take-over-The-Magazine issue, offers a glimpse of the self-help book he will one day write.

42 WE KNOW BEST

We asked Tom Brady, Derek Jeter and 199 other pros to crown the Best Athlete on Earth. Long live the Air—sorry, heir—to the throne.

46 SOLVING THE RIDDLE

Ace reporter Baron Davis has a simple question: How can he get his Warriors to the NBA Finals? Some guys named Kobe, Chauncey and Tony show him the way.

52 FINALS EXAMINATION

We'll just say it: Boring happened at last season's Cavs-Spurs finale. Sure, Lakers-Celts might sound snazzier, but Derek Fisher and a few other pros still want to drop notes into the NBA Finals suggestion box.

54 JOCKSNAPS 3.0

Man, these guys can shoot—and we're not talking jumpers. Once again, we happily give you the players' photo portfolio.

63 MIKE COMMAND

The Mag and ESPNU gave 49er Michael Robinson a chance at his on-air dream job. Boy, did he get a surprise.

69 JUST BETWEEN US GUYS ...

Mariners lefty Erik Bédard has a well-known disdain for the media. Luckily, his trusted current and former teammates were willing to do the dirty work for us.

72 HALL IF I KNOW

Three current athletes say it's a crime that their favorite players aren't in the Hall of Fame. After hearing them out, you will too.

76 "SLOW GUY WITH A GUT ... THAT'S NOT ME"

Think you're misunderstood? Wait until you hear how some jocks feel about their video game selves.

78 HOLY CRAP ... THIS IS HARD!

The easiest tasks in sports are tougher than they look. They're also a bit sillier than they look when athletes—including members of KYLE BUSCH'S PIT CREW—demonstrate them with rolls of toilet paper.
