OUR PROCESS TO REDUCE SULFUR IN GASOLINE
HELPS THOSE WHO DON'T EVEN DRIVE.

Sulfur is a naturally occurring element in gasoline and contributes to air pollution. But until recently, the methods used to remove sulfur from gasoline weren't very efficient. So Phillips is developing a new process that removes more than 90% of the sulfur in standard gasoline without significant loss of octane or volume. It's an innovation that will help us reduce harmful emissions from cars, improve air quality and meet proposed sulfur regulations for years to come. And it's just one of the many ways we live up to the name The Performance Company.
