AUGUST 1973|VOL. 7, NO. 3

THE MAGAZINE ABOUT PSYCHOLOGY, SOCIETY AND HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Patrice Horn	13	News Line Life-styles of unmarried couples; the dismal pattern of U.S. criminal justice; rehumanizing ghetto families; the lonely life of the mentally retarded adult; and other items.
Daniel Oran	20	Stimulus/Response: Judges and Psychiatrists Lock Up Too Many People When a person's behavior is annoying or embarrassing, we commit him or her to a mental hospital, thereby turning legal or social problems into psychiatric ones. A lawyer's plea for liberty and against engineering conformity.
T George Harris	32	Jaffe, Nixon and the Politics of Technology , an introduction.
Erich Fromm	35	Man Would As Soon Flee As Fight In a prepublication excerpt from The Anatomy of Human Destructiveness , Fromm points out that man's impulse to flee from danger is at least as strong as his impulse to stay and fight and that hunting societies foster cooperation and sharing, not aggression.
Lytton Strachey	40	Sennacherib and Rupert Brooke This imaginary dialogue between the bloody Assyrian ruler and the British poet of World War I satirizes warfare by exposing the common ground shared by tyrant and patriot.
Nora Scott Kinzer	46	Soapy Sin in the Afternoon A sociologist wipes away the suds and takes a clean look at the characters who infest television soap operas, pausing to ponder over the prevalence of illegitimacy and illness on the tube.
Ivan D. Steiner	50	The Illusion of Freedom Is No Mirage Freedom may be an illusion, but illusions can change history. The freedom we attribute to others affects both our judgments and our behavior.
Cynthia Fuchs Epstein	57	Black and Female: The Double Whammy Interviews with black women who made it in a white man's world indicate that black females may not threaten white males and that some black girls get the same strong family support that upward-striving white families give their boys.
Howard Gardner	62	Developmental Dyslexia: The Forgotten Lesson of Monsieur C Many healthy children have enormous difficulty learning to read. The case of a 19th-century French stroke victim goes a long way toward clearing up the mystery and suggests a fruitful area for future research.
T George Harris	68	"As Far As Heroin Is Concerned, The Worst is Over," a Conversation About the Drug Epidemic With Jerome Jaffe The psychiatrist-pharmacologist who headed Nixon's Drug Abuse Prevention program talks about his new confidence in the battle against addiction, about methadone, marijuana, and the Vietnam vets who kicked the habit without a fuss.
T George Harris	74	Jerome Jaffe and His Addicts , a sketch.
