

COVER

School doors are swinging open and autumn's leafy grandeur will soon be here—but memories of summer linger for a long time in a boy's mind. While the days are still warm and the leaves are still green, it's easy to remember that trip to the big league game, the week at camp, the overnight hike with Dad, the greased-watermelon free-for-all at camp, the family vacation to Washington, that Indian dancing at camp, afternoons at the old swimming hole, that first dark night he heard "Taps" at camp, picnics and charcoal and hot dogs. Cheer up, bud—there's always next year!
