

Stacks in Washington

Chris Ogden with President Carter

Laurence Barrett with Reagan

Correspondent MacNeil

Duncan with Boeth and Doerner

Associate Editor Frank Merrick

Senior Editor James Atwater

Drapkin with Considine and Kellner

Correspondent McGeary

20 That Winning Smile

Now all the world's a stage for Ronald Reagan, the onetime actor whose smashing presidential victory surprises even his fans by its size. He draws support from women, Jews, Democrats and just about every bloc and state he wasn't supposed to win. His easy manner and moves toward the middle reassure voters, but the man is, after all, committed to changing the course of U.S. Government. Will he?

26 The Presidency
TIME Columnist Hugh Siedy ponders the ingredients of presidential leadership, and whether Reagan has them.

27 America Decides
The long trail that began with the Iowa caucuses was finally over. A color album of the 1980 presidential election.

31 Analyzing the Vote
The debate helps, the hostage factor does not hurt, and the experts are wrong: all kinds of folks like Reagan.

36 Reagan's Views
In an interview with TIME, the President-elect tells how he hopes to change fundamentally the Government's direction.

38 George Bush
He has strong prospects of succeeding to the Oval Office, but for now Bush is content to play second fiddle.

41 The New Team
The President-elect hopes to make the big decisions. A look at who might handle the day-to-day operations for him.

44 The Democrats
Carter's defeat may give his party a chance to regroup by recovering its discipline and philosophical coherence.

52 John Anderson
He was once favored by nearly 25% of the voters. Then began his decline. Might it have been different for Anderson?

55 The Senate
A well-funded conservative drive helps retire some liberal incumbents, and a Democratic majority fades.

61 The House
The Democrats lose their whip and much more in the Reagan sweep, but keep the edge in a more conservative chamber.

65 The Governors
The G.O.P. moves into a few Democratic mansions, but there is no change in most of the 13 up for grabs.

73 The Referendums
Voters decide on tax limits, nuclear power, public smoking and dozens of other questions tacked onto local ballots.

74 World
The militants agree to hand over the hostages to the Iranian government. ▶ The families' ordeal. ▶ Smoothing the way for release.

80 Business
Computer wizardry is starting to increase output at the office. ▶ A glut of European steel. ▶ Admen are turning wags to riches.

88 Sport
Almost everybody is losing to almost everybody else in pro football's most evenly matched, and confusing, topsy-turvy season in years.

90 Religion
Despite smashed temples, shattered images and 50,000 martyred monks, Buddhism struggles on in Communist Southeast Asia.

106 Science
New viruses imperil birds and dogs. ▶ The camel owes his desert durability partly to his nose. ▶ Why reindeer get ulcers.

87 Living
92 Medicine
94 Behavior
96 People
97 Press
99 Books
109 Cinema
109 Theater
110 Music

Cover: Photograph by Evans—Gamma/Liaison.

NOVEMBER 17, 1980

$1.50

TIME

ELECTION SPECIAL

A FRESH START

MerchMart.com
Gift Quality Vintage Magazines

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW
WHAT HE'LL DO

FEB81 CRL 99053093T 55 65 67
MRS O A CARLSON
MNH44
BOX 53
NM YORK MLS MN 56567